Dear Jim:

I very much appreciate your kind note of September 26th commenting upon my San Francisco talk.

It is a pleasure to forward a copy of this speech to Mrs. Claire Gianinni Hoffman and I have dispatched one to her this morning.

With best wishes,

Faithfully,

Dear Allen -

I enjoyed the luncheon with you very much, as always. I read the speech with the greatest interest and thought it masterly. Mrs. Claire Gianinni Hoffman, whom you may recall as A.P. Gianinni daughter, and who is the fortunate inheritor of his brains, was our guest at breakfast this morning, and I told her about it. She would like to have it. She is a director and member of the executive committee of the Bank of America, and a person of great influence in the institution. Would you be willing to send her a copy in care of the head office of the Bank of America at San Francisco. I am sure that she will appreciate it, as would I. We are anticipating greatly our luncheon with Clover today!

Sincerely,

Jim
